("Emerald") (TSXV:EMH; OTCQX:EMHTF) has completed its first shipments of adult-use cannabis, fulfilling its initial supply scheduling, product, and volume commitments in British Columbia and Newfoundland and Labrador – an important milestone for the Company as it significantly ramps up production and sourcing of cannabis and cannabinoid products. Emerald products have been available in these provinces since October 31st.

"It has always been important to us to ensure we fulfill the supply commitments we made to our provincial cannabis distribution customers. "With proprietary market research, differentiated products based on unique plant genetics, a recognizable, trusted brand, significant marketing expertise and bandwidth, and a growing sales team across Canada, we are aiming for a significant ramp-up in sales every quarter from these initial deliveries forward."

"Emerald aims to assure its customers a secure supply of an array of products by establishing significant, diverse sources of indoor, greenhouse, and outdoor-grown cannabis and cannabinoid products. We have a strong and building foundation to achieve this goal," said Chris Wagner, CEO at Emerald. "Our products are now available in stores and online in BC as well as Newfoundland and Labrador. Emerald is in negotiations with cannabis distribution authorities in several provinces as we continue to scale our production and sourcing efforts."
